State: Independent unit that occupies a specific territory and has __________ control of its internal and external affairs

Nation: Group of people with a common _______________ living in a territory and having a strong sense of unity

Democracy: Citizens ________________ political power either directly or through electing representatives.

Monarchy: A _________________ family headed by a queen or king that hold political power and may or may not share power with the citizens

Dictatorship: An ________________ holds all the power in the country

Communism: All power is held in the _____________________ hands in the name of the people

Landlocked: A country surrounded by ______________________ no water border

Natural Border: A boundary based on a ______________________ landform like a river ______________________:_ A fixed line like a line of latitude or longitude.